

A FIRE HAZARD, and a bad one, is illustrated by Fire Chief Charles Brown, who points to dry straw and a gasoline can. Looking on are Fireman James Cass and Forest Ranger Jack Tice. The local Fire Department, in cooperation with the Forest Service, will make a survey of the canyon area the weekends of Sept. 6-7 and Sept. 13-14 to warn residents of hazardous conditions. Firemen and forest rangers will work on their own time, without pay. This photo was posed, but Chief Brown said there are many hazards as serious as this one in Sierra Madre.

Sea Water Conversion Plant Planned

Southern California Edison Co. hopes to start construction of a pilot sea water conversion plant adjacent to its Mandalay Steam Station, now under construction near Oxnard, around the first of the year, it was announced yesterday by Paul J. Langlie, Edison district manager.

Invitations for proposals covering equipment for the pilot plant have been issued and are expected to be received by the end of September. The company has earmarked $100,000 in its budget for the start of the project, Langlie said.

In announcing the company's research plans, Langlie emphasized that Edison is primarily interested in comparing several processes to determine which appears the more promising from an economic and engineering standpoint.

The processes to be studied would take partially spent steam from the last stages of a steam turbine and utilize the remaining heat to evaporate sea water under varying conditions so as to produce potable water.

It is anticipated that converted sea water—although more costly than natural water—might be used to meet part of the fresh water needs of Mandalay Steam Station.

Langlie made it clear that up to now the company has no cost data and no actual engineering tests to show what may be practical.

The Edison executive also noted that from present data there seems "no reasonable possibility" that one of these processes could yield water at costs comparable with those now being charged by the Metropolitan Water District or comparable with the cost of transporting water from Northern California.

Public Reception Set Sept. 3 for Shirle Goodike

The public is invited to a reception for Shirle Goodike, prize-winning artist, in the Sierra Madre Library, Sept. 3 from 8 to 10 p.m.

Goodike, recent winner of the purchase prize in the Los Angeles County Museum's annual exhibition, will display his paintings and drawings in the Library Gallery here from Sept. 2 to Sept. 29.

His appearance here is sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

Burglars Get Cash From Masonic Hall

One burglary and bouts with assorted animals occupied Sierra Madre police this past week.

The burglary was reported at the Masonic Lodge last Thursday. Police Chief Gordon McMillan said that entry was gained through an unlocked window.

About $7 was taken from a Coke machine in the lodge.

POLICE ALSO had their usual jousts with area dogs on the loose, but it was an injured blue jay that puzzled them briefly.

The bird, which apparently had been attacked and injured by a cat, was brought into the police station in a box, with instructions to "take good care of it."

Since there are no facilities in the police station to take care of birds, at least those of the feathered variety, the patrolmen were at first inclined to put the blue jay out of its misery.

MORE THOUGHTFUL heads prevailed, though, and the bird was finally turned over to Noble Jefferson, who houses an extensive bird collection at 93 N. Auburn. At last reports, the blue jay was doing fine.

Police also disposed of one rattlesnake at 1 E. Carter, and chased off two foxes who, according to the report, were molesting a cat.

Two Men Assault Local Woman Here

Two men attempted to assault Mrs. Harold Stein, wife of the former owner of the Sierra Madre Theater, while she was on her way home early Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Stein told police she was driving down E. Grand View when she noticed a car following her. She stopped, thinking the occupants were friends, and the car, a blue and white station wagon, pulled up beside her.

TWO MEN were in the car. One got out and the other drove in front of Mrs. Stein, forcing her car to the curb, she said.

One of the men entered Mrs. Stein's car and said, several times: "You're a doll."

The driver also got out and stood at the window of Mrs. Stein's car.

"Don't be afraid," he said. "Let my friend, Jim, talk to you."

MRS. STEIN screamed, awakening a resident on E. Grand View who immediately called police. Before police arrived, the station wagon was driven away.

Later, Mrs. Stein and her husband, who was ahead of her in another car, said they first noticed a car following at Sierra Madre Villa and Sierra Madre Blvd., but thought nothing of it.

When Mrs. Stein was stopped, her husband's car was out of sight, en route to the couple's home at 747 Brookside Lane. The incident occurred at 2:40 a.m.

You Use 183 Gallons Daily, Water, That Is

The average Sierra Madrean, believe it or not, uses 183 gallons of water a day, according to a report compiled by the City Water Department.

This figure is not so astounding, though, when you realize that this includes sprinkling, taking a bath and the dozens of other ways water is used.

The city, however, had plenty of water in fiscal 1957-58 and expects to have even more this coming year.

The city's four wells and two tunnel wells, in fact, pumped about 2,200 acre feet from 5-1655 between 9 a.m. and 12 noon, and from 2 to 4 p.m.

Water Is Green But Ink Red At New Pool

The new swimming pool has been operating at a slight deficit during the past two months, it was reported yesterday.

From July 1 through Aug. 21, the city spent $4,064 on pool supplies, utilities and salaries. During the same period, income amounted to $3,806.

Crowds at the pool have averaged about 250 a day. The admission fee schedule, comparable with the amount charged by other municipalities in this area, is 50 cents for adults, 35 cents for teenagers, and 25 cents for children under 12 years.

Nursery Program to Start Sept. 8

The Sierra Madre Community Nursery School will begin its regular school year on Sept. 8, following the termination of its summer school program.

Mrs. Marjorie Green, director, announces that her staff will consist of Mrs. Eleanor Jacobs, Mrs. Pat Bush, and Mrs. Janice Marugg. Mrs. Jean Dennis continues as the school secretary, and Mrs. Julius Hammerschmidt will participate as the school nurse.

The Sierra Madre Community Nursery School utilizes assistant teachers to provide extra supervision for the children. These teachers chosen from among qualified mothers who make application, must enroll for the year in a training class offered by Pasadena City College.

This year's assistant teachers, who will attend the training classes at the Nursery School, are:

Mrs. Carl Cheadle, Mrs. John Samzon, Mrs. Draper Phillips, Mrs. Ted Leiman, Mrs. Jack Thorpe, Mrs. Harry Knight, Mrs. Sam Perry, Mrs. Bernard Robinson, Mrs. Ronald Townsend, Mrs. Richard Reardon, Mrs. Takes Koyamatsu, Mrs. Sam Schwartz, Mrs. James Link, Mrs. George Kelsey.

Parents interested in inquiring about the Nursery School's enrollment policies are requested to call ELgin at 5-1655 between 9 a.m. and 12 noon, and from 2 to 4 p.m.

City Tax Rate Dips As Evaluation Climbs

Council Sets Figure At $1.54 for Year

Sierra Madreans, although they may not notice it, will pay a lower city tax rate this year.

The new rate, set by the City Council at an adjourned meeting last Thursday, is $1.54 per $100 of assessed valuation, compared with last year's rate of $1.57.

Tennis Club Plans Tournament In Park Sunday

The fourth annual tournament sponsored by the Sierra Madre Tennis Club will be held this Sunday, starting at 9 a.m., on the local courts.

Entries must be in by 7 p.m. today. Tournament fees are 75 cents for club members and $1.50 for non-members.

To enter the tournament call Robert Englert, ELgin 5-1740, or James Holt, EL 5-6838. Trophies will be presented to the winners, and refreshments will be served.

Arcadia Attorney Heads Stanford Law Society

Edward L. Butterfield, 1145 Singing Wood Dr., Arcadia, has been elected president of the Stanford Law Society of Southern California.

Graduated from Stanford in 1936 and from Stanford Law School in 1939, Butterfield is a senior member of a Los Angeles law firm, a member of the Arcadia Board of Education and the immediate past president of the board.

As the new head of the Stanford law group, he will preside at a luncheon today for some 700 members of the American Bar Association at the Baltimore during the organization's convention.

One of the primary reasons the lower rate is possible, of course, is that the assessed valuation has increased. The figure for Sierra Madre this year is $13,263,090, compared with $12,532,540 a year earlier.

The total city budget is $755,674, of which $208,284 must be raised by taxation. The remaining funds come to the city from the sales tax, gasoline tax, Water Department fees, etc.

AT THE next Council meeting in September, bids on the Montecito Sower District are expected to be evaluated and acted upon.

The city has received three bids, one of which is substantially below the estimate made by City Administrator Lawrence C. Bevington.

The low bid of $15,800 was submitted by the Milosovich Co. Bevington had estimated the cost of the work at $17,890.

Other bids are $21,220 from the L D & M Co., and $25,900 from the Grizel Co.

ITEMS BID upon include excavation, the supplying and installation of 8-inch pipe, the construction of six manholes, backfilling, repaving and the installation of lateral sewers.

The cost of the improvement will be divided among property owners in the district, as is explained in an article on this page by the city administrator.

100 Greet C.W. Jones On 90th Birthday

C. W. Jones, Sierra Madre's first mayor, celebrated his 90th birthday Sunday with the help of 100 friends, and telegrams and phone calls from all parts of the country.

Still trim and alert, Jones came to the little mountain community of Sierra Madre in 1906 and has lived continuously in his present home at 49 E. Alegria. His house was the first one in the tract.

As the city's first mayor, he was active in Sierra Madre's incorporation, and he helped start the first bank and telephone company here.

HIS BIGGEST problem, one which still plagues Southern California, was to obtain a water supply.

Half of the water rights in the Santa Anita Wash in 1906 was owned by mutual companies and individuals and the other half by E. J. "Lucky" Baldwin.

"We had to condemn Baldwin's water rights to acquire them," said Jones. "and we had a gentlemen's agreement with the other owners that they would give us their rights when we got Baldwin's."

Jones resigned as mayor before his fourth term of office was completed.

Through the years, he has displayed a consuming interest in his adopted city.

He served as president of the Historical Society for many years. During his term of office "The Annals of Early Sierra Madre" was published, to keep alive the city's history and memories of its founding fathers and pioneer families.

AMONG MORE than 100 well-wishers who called on Jones Sunday was Francis Free, of Pomona, one of the pupils Jones taught in an Indiana school 68 years ago. Before coming to Sierra Madre, he also taught school in Nebraska, Iowa and Colorado.

Standing with him to greet his guests was his wife, Mary, 86, to whom he has been married 59 years. Their 60th wedding anniversary will be June 9, 1959.

Assisting at the open house were the Jones' daughter, Mrs. Hudson Proctor. She and her husband have made their home with her parents for the past year. A grandson, Philip Proctor, is a student at UCLA.

Also assisting Sunday was Cynthia Pinson, of San Marino, Philip's fiancée.

Assessment Districts Explained

By Lawrence C. Bevington
City Administrator

(The recent formation of the Montecito Sewer District has aroused considerable interest among Sierra Madreans, many of whom may desire to form districts of their own, either for the installation of sewers or to make other improvements. Accordingly, the Sierra Madre News presents the following article, which outlines steps necessary to form a district.)

What is a Special Assessment District set up to do?

It is a law passed by the California State Legislature which enables the city to act as agent for a group of property owners who want to construct some public works. If the property owners can pay cash and all of the owners agree to the work, an assessment district is not necessary. The assessment district is used when the majority want something done, but the minority either does not want the work done or cannot pay in cash.

The Act allows the city to act for the majority and carry out their wishes. In the end, all parties must pay their share either as a cash payment at the end of the work or in the form of a loan (a bond) against the property.

The basic steps are nine:

1. An improvement plan is adopted because of a petition from the property owners.
2. An investigation is made into the assessed value of the properties involved, and the amount and extent of previous assessment acts which are still liens against the property.
3. The property owners who will be assessed are notified that there will be a hearing on the investigation outlined in No. 2 and also the plans indicated in No. 1. These notices are by mail, by posting the district and by publishing in the paper.

4. A hearing is held before the City Council. Any property owner to be assessed may object to doing the work, the area to be assessed, the plans to be used, or the procedure followed. If a majority protests, the district is normally dropped. The City Council, by a four-fifths vote, can continue a district if it involves a health hazard from sewers or drainage or sidewalks where school children are involved.

5. If the decision is to proceed, the City Council calls for bids, awards to the lowest bidder and the contractor does the work.

6. After all work is completed the city engineer figures up the total charges and makes an assessment splitting the costs between the property owners.

7. The City Council holds a hearing on the assessment. The property owners are notified as before. Any property owner to be assessed may object to: amount to assessment, division of costs between properties, way work was done, or proceedings followed.

8. The City Council considers all protests and makes whatever adjustments it deems necessary. The assessments are then confirmed and recorded and the contractor authorized to collect the amounts owed.

9. The property owners can either pay cash in 30 days or allow the charges to go to bond. Most of these bonds will be a period of 10 years with interest at 6 per cent.

There are slight variations where sometimes the opinion of the health officer is secured or where the property owners decided to do the work when they feel they can do it cheaper than the contractor, but the above is a good outline of the basic steps.

WHAT ARE the advantages and disadvantages of special assessments?

ADVANTAGES:

1. The property to be benefited pays the bill. The general city is not charged.

2. Costs within the district are distributed according to benefit received and not in accordance with assessed valuation.

3. It enables the majority to get work done and allows the cost to be spread out over several years, while still allowing cash payments for those with available money.

It also provides for the property owner to pay off his bond at any time during the term of the bond.

DISADVANTAGES:

1. The procedure is long and drawn out due to the many steps required and the period of time called for between each step. For instance, certain hearings cannot be less than 15 days after notice which, considering the city council meeting schedule, means it often takes a month between actions.

2. Assessment proceedings cost from 10 to 20 per cent more than cash because of the posting, advertising, legal and engineering work involved.

3. Assessment proceeding also costs more because bonds must be issued and the price to be paid for the bonds depends on the availability of money, type of neighborhood, way in which the assessment is made and the size of the bonds involved.

TO REVIEW briefly:

1. Assessment districts can be used for any improvement in the public streets such as street lights, sidewalks, alleys, paving, sewers.

2. The action is started by a petition from the property owners, the petition form is provided by the city, and a majority of those to be assessed must agree to the work.

3. The city does the necessary work in the clerical, engineering and legal fields.

Turn Day Dreams into Free Dollars

The Rose Parade Float Committee is sponsoring a contest for the whole family to select a float theme for the 1959 Pasadena Rose Tournament.

The winner will receive two tickets for the Rose Bowl Game as well as a gift certificate for $10 honored at any store of your choice in Sierra Madre.

The rules are simple—merely submit either a sketch in black and white or color showing your ideas of a float theme. If you're not too handy in the art department, just describe your suggestion in 50 words or less and mail to Float Contest, City Hall, Sierra Madre, before Sept. 20, 1958.

"Adventure in Flowers" is this year's theme. A suggestion might come from history, such as the Adventure of Marco Polo, or from literature, either fiction or non-fiction; for example Adventures of Tom Sawyer or Adventures in Modern Space Flight might be a winning entry. Our local library is a source for hundreds of ideas and you may enter the contest as many times as you wish.

All contestants must be residents of Sierra Madre.

All judging will be done by the members of the Float Committee and in case of duplicate suggested themes, the decision will be based on the earliest post mark.

Labor Day—1958

Organized labor today, on the eve of its national celebration, has little reason to be proud.

Only a handful of unions have managed to retain the fervor, the spirit of reform and the incorruptibility which was the trademark of earlier unions.

Too many unions today are run strictly as businesses; too many labor leaders have set up little kingdoms which they jealously guard, frequently to the detriment of their dues-paying members; too many labor officials are tarnished with the stain of corruption and compromise.

LABOR TALKS big about its political power, but can it actually produce? Examine the results of past elections and you'll discover the answer is largely negative.

The United Auto Workers is virtually alone today among unions that still have the organizing zeal and desire for social progress that marked trade union organizations of an earlier time. The UAW also is one of the few unions in America that can produce at election time.

Yet strangely enough, the UAW—one of the cleanest labor groups in America—is the most hated and feared by the enemies of labor, hated because of its social fervor, feared because of its ability to produce.

In this category fall a handful of other unions—the IAM in some sections of the country, the ILGWU and possibly the IUE. Other unions, particularly those in the printing trades, have established sound organizations that protect their members.

BUT UNFORTUNATELY there are too many unions whose leaders care little for the welfare of the rank and file. They are in the business to make a buck and to gain power.

Organized labor is full of hacks, surfeited with so-called leaders who have built up self-perpetuating political machines.

It's primarily because of the hacks, the crooks and the apathetic that right-to-work laws have passed in many states.

If the law passes in California—as well it may—organized labor will have no one to blame but itself.—H.W.E.

After Integration Repeal?

(The following editorial is reprinted from the Jackson Advocate, Jackson, Miss., one of the largest and most widely read Negro newspapers in that state. It represents a Jim Crow point of view that, surprisingly, is held by many Negroes—much to the dismay of the NAACP and other groups dedicated to promoting equal—not separate—rights for Negroes. It is reprinted here because it points out still another problem in the complex maze of contradictions that guide human beings in their support or opposition to integration.)

Up in Nashville, Tennessee, the other day, according to newspaper reports, the delegates attending the Annual Race Relations Institute at Fisk University, became greatly sobored when a well informed spokesman suggested the possibility that its opponents may be successful in obtaining the repeal of the U.S. Supreme Court decision calling for the integration of the nation's public schools.

With such a suggestion having been raised the question immediately arises, if not integration, what? A question which can be considered intelligently only in the light of the nation's past history.

IN THE FIRST place there are many instances in the nation's history where laws enacted by the Congress, and subsequently upheld by decisions of the United States Supreme Court, because of the overwhelming rejection of American public opinion, with the consequent lack of public support, have been finally repealed.

Any view or study of American history, and of the American ideal of democracy, is bound to reveal that what brought peoples of all races, nations, colors and creeds to these shores to join in helping make the United States the great nation it is today, was that each group could have its own churches, schools, and other institutions and organizations under the guarantee of equal protection under the law.

The idea of integration in this country was born in the minds of those who saw in it a means of creating the division, and stirring up strife and tension in the United States, as an aid to the cause and advancement of world Communism, and later by those who think the best way to combat Russia and Communism is to make the United States as nearly like Russia as possible, under the impossible assumption, as event are providing daily, that this could be done without injury to the great idea and ideal of American Democracy.

WE SEE no reason why the aims of the Negro for equal protection under the law would suffer as a result of the repeal of the U.S. Supreme Court Decisions in the public school integration cases. Indeed, the Negro, particularly those in the South, might be far better off than they now are, by thus relieving the existing tension, and again making race pride a motivating incentive in Negro progress, and again making possible Southern inter-racial cooperation and goodwill.

Moreover, we see American Democracy under its original idea and ideal winning the propaganda battle with world Communism.

Finally, the repeal would leave the subject of racial integration a matter between the individuals involved, thus making it a social rather than a legal concept, the social concept being the chief basis of the arguments on which the decisions were based.

Letters to the Editor

WONDERFUL WORK

Dear Buddy, Tracy, Dave and all the others my children have mentioned with such great admiration:

I'm certain I speak for all the mothers in Sierra Madre when I thank you for the wonderful work you have done this summer!

Summer is a trying time for both mothers and children because it's so difficult to keep young minds and bodies occupied for so many hours in the day. How can we ever express our gratitude for the many hours you have devoted to teaching them new crafts, games, sports, and most of all, sportsmanship!

May I also throw in a big thank you for opening the pool to them during the last weeks of your program.

There were probably other mothers like myself who failed to register their children in time for swimming lessons!

You have been so patient and understanding with our children, and I wonder if you know how much it has really been appreciated.

I wish to thank each of you personally and the Sierra Madre Department of Recreation for making it all possible.

Sincerely yours,
JOAN E. AGE

SIGNIFICANCE OF AUG. 29

August 29th . . . has two special meanings in Sierra Madre.

First, it would have been Jim Heasley's 67th birthday, and he and Myrtle's 32nd wedding anniversary. To many people this day holds a special part of our lives.

The last I saw Jim was two days before his death. He had not one, nor two, but three crew cut males of tender years pulled off ONE bike at the entrance to our new pool on Sierra Madre Blvd. He stood towering above them, his large hand on their heads, giving them a "bad time."

I will always remember this act he performed because it was typical of Jim's philosophy of life.

The fire chief's white hat and patrolman's badge No. 1 may be retired now, but the influence of the man who held them will be forever implanted in many of us.

A MR. AND MRS. HEASLEY FAN.

Your Congressman . . .

By Edgar W. Hiestand
Rep., 21st District

Of all the important bills passed by the 85th Congress, few are of greater significance to Southern California than the Saline Water Program, passed by the House this week. It provides for the construction of five experimental demonstration stations, one of which is to be located on the West Coast, probably California.

These experimental stations will test equipment and conduct research on the problem of converting salt and brackish water to fresh water. The goal, of course, is to come up with an economical, practical process for converting water.

We Southern Californians know the meaning of water shortage. Many of our fellow Americans, having no firsthand knowledge or experience, have been slow to grasp the real nature of our plight. Unless this program is vigorously pursued and successfully concluded within a reasonable period of time, or unless Mother Nature changes her ways, all Americans may soon know the meaning of parched farm lands and thirsty cities.

I think this program is a great stride in the right direction. It is evident that the development of economically feasible saline water conversion processes is one of the great challenges of our time.

We have spent a great deal of time and money on water programs which were absolutely necessary, but at the same time, known in advance to be temporary and inadequate. I'm convinced the Saline Water Program will be the answer to our prayers, although it won't happen overnight. Certainly I will do all in my power to support the program in Congress.

THE HUMANE SLAUGHTER BILL finally cleared the Senate and will be the law of the land as soon as it's signed by the President.

Most of the provisions of my H.R. 3049 were incorporated in the finished version. Unfortunately, it was watered down somewhat, but is still a forward step and will go a long way toward ending the needless cruelty and horror of our stockyards and slaughter houses.

A WORLD'S FAIR IN LOS ANGELES COUNTY in 1963 seems the most logical thing imaginable to me. Do I sound prejudiced? I am.

We have everything to offer. The climate, the facilities, the people with know-how and enthusiasm, and altogether, the greatest cross-section of America that could possibly be presented to the world. Furthermore, it is entirely appropriate to have the first truly "space age" World's Fair in Los Angeles County; the electronics, scientific, aircraft, rocket and missile, and therefore, Space Age Capital of the World.

In view of the above, I have introduced a Joint Resolution authorizing the President to designate the vicinity of Los Angeles as the site of a World's Fair in 1963.

TAX REVISIONS. Earlier this year I introduced legislation designed to stimulate the economy and boost employment, by encouraging manufacturing plants to replace obsolete machinery and equipment, and to purchase additional (new or used) equipment for expansion or modernization.

The bill provided a faster tax write-off for such purchases.

Still another tax revision, coming from the same conference and almost certain to become law, provides for easing the tax on movie and other admissions. Community swimming pools also will be exempted from the Federal club dues tax.

All in all, it's been a real pleasure to write this column—so many good things to report.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hoffman left for a visit to the exposition at San Francisco.

20 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK, Aug. 19, 1938—Mrs. Josephine E. Marr, 204 E. Sierra Madre Blvd., was hostess at an afternoon tea. Those who attended were Miss Ethel Braun, Mrs. Julia Shannon, Mrs. Woodson Jones, Mrs. Helen Hutton and Mrs. John Colbert.

Mrs. George McRoberts, 536 W. Highland, accompanied by Mrs. W. E. Burns and Mrs. L. M. Anderson, spent the week with the Misses Hazel and Jean Woodward at Dana Park.

10 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK, Aug. 26, 1948—Lynlia Ower won second place in the All-City Majorette chases; a big incentive for the average businessman. Sen. Capehart introduced a bill in the Senate about the same time, containing the same principle. This week a Senate-House conference committee agreed to the principle and put it into a bill which is almost certain to win approval of both bodies.

Another important tax revision, also adopted by the conference committee, permits installment payments of estate taxes imposed on the death of an owner of a small business. This is of tremendous importance because hundreds of small, closely-held businesses are destroyed each year when they have to be liquidated to pay death taxes.

Still another tax revision, coming from the same conference and almost certain to become law, provides for easing the tax on movie and other admissions. Community swimming pools also will be exempted from the Federal club dues tax.

All in all, it's been a real pleasure to write this column—so many good things to report.

OUT OF THE COBWEBS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Lyon 497 W. Grand View, were parents of a son, William Sutton Lyon, born at Huntington Memorial Hospital.

5 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK, Aug. 20, 1953—Mrs. Jesse Rhodes was guest of honor at a stork shower given by the women of the First Baptist Church.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Stadden Miller entertained Mr. and Mrs. George E. Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Jouve at dinner. Mr. Palmer is the vice counsel in Barcelona, Spain.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Skutt sailed Sept. 5 from San Francisco aboard the S.S. Topa Topa for a world tour.

Around the Square

By Tommy Ann Miller

There'll be a hollow spot in many lives now that the Robert Jenkins' and daughters, Julie and Elizabeth, have moved to San Francisco—where Budge will teach high school art classes. Budge (a fine artist and illustrator), attended the California School of Fine Arts in the Bay area and recently (by holding down a full-time job plus going to college—which takes gumption) got his teaching credential from L.A. State.

The Jenkins' (both practically grew up here), have been hosted and toasted at a round of farewells—including an open house at Howard and Jo Whalen's recently, and family barbecue at Jennie Lewis' (Kathy's sister)—the afternoon of their trek north.

TEETERING AUTO. Report (from a reliable window witness), of a commotion in the parking lot behind the Hotel, Thursday midnight, when a car got snagged on a bulged ledge and dangled precariously until the gendarmes came to the rescue.

ANOTHER YOUNG father (of lively, year-old twin girls) starting out in the teaching profession is Tom Burns, son of Isabelle Burns of the Wistaria eBauty Shop—who begins teaching fourth grade in the El Monte school system.

A WARMLY informal overflow gathering of friends and relatives at Temple Beth Israel for the Sunday afternoon formal wedding of Fay Rosen and Irwin Greenfield—everyone from grandpa to babies (men and boys wearing the orthodox black and white skull caps) greeted each other, laughing and talking (a refreshing change from the somber atmosphere preceding most weddings) . . . Rabbi Steckel read the Hebrew rites uniting the young couple as they stood under the flowered canopy . . . followed by the tender Seven Songs of Blessing, sung by Cantor Blumenthal . . . at the end of the ceremony, the traditional glass-breaking by the groom amid congratulatory cries of "Mazel tov!" . . . and finally, a feast and toast to the happy pair . . . Mazeltov! indeed.

TRIPOLI SHORES? With his physical exam successfully out of the way, Bob Brogger, son of Mary Nickerson, expects to report to Oceanside next week for basic training in the Marine Corps. Bob (an avid "surfer"), was raised in Sierra Madre and graduated from P.J.C.—where he wrote for the Chronicle. He's been an all-around hand at the News Office for the past eight years, and plans to go into a journalistic career after his Marine duty.

BUNK BUSINESS. Hand printed "going out of business" note of despair nailed to one of the twins in front of Henderson's Twin Palms shop (opened only a scant eight months ago): "We've Had It!"—seems to express the sentiments of many small business people these days.

THE PETE KREUSCHER (he's been doing the cabinet-work during Garland's transformation) are in the throes of a Tahoe vacation at a lakeside cabin. Their son, Harold Brett, and family, left on the weekend to join them—and while road-testing their new station wagon, will drop in on the Bill Thayers and Walt Reeds of Sacramento, and the Harold Camerons of Paradise (all former residents of our own paradise).

MOTEL HEAVEN. Charles and Catherine Morgan and children are also heading for Paradise (the same one) to go into the motel business—and are selling their huge English-style home on West Montecito. Approximately 3,000 people populate Paradise—Butte County branch.

ASIAN SHORES. Seaman Alan Hurwit sends word to his parents, Ralph and Ann, that he's bound for Japan (his second all-expense-paid Naval tour)—with stopovers in Hawaii, Okinawa and Far Eastern points.

RESIDENT RIPPLES. The True Ripples have given up ranching in Northern California and moved here to be nearer their son, Sterling Ripple. They've leased the Robert's redwood home on East Grand View.

THE PEOPLE I was assigned to work with, in June of 1957, were a pair of Hungarian refugees, Imre and Ideko. They had two children, Cristina and Peter. When I met them they had been in this country three months; they spoke no English at all when they arrived. Armed with a note written in Hungarian introducing me, I went to their home, an old, somewhat ramshackle house on an overgrown lot in Altadena.

When I met Ideko—she was 28, frail and pretty, with long, curly dark hair and the wan vivacity of someone with anemia—she was so delighted to see a visitor that she pulled me in, clapped her hands over the note, and cried, "Happy, happy!" over and over.

Altadenans Tell of Escape From Hungary

(This is the first of three articles on a family of Hungarian refugees who settled in Altadena after escaping from their native land.)

By Eleanor Wood

Now that we have intervened in Lebanon—confronting the Russians and Nasser as we prevented the British and French from doing at the time of Suez—I can't help recalling the time we did not intervene in a similar situation, the Hungarian uprising of 1956.

When that abortive revolution occurred, I knew nothing about Hungary except the vague image most Americans hold of it—or did hold—of schmalzy waltzes and bright opera-bouffe uniforms, Balkan intrigue. It had a Graustarkian aura in my mind.

A few months after the revolution I became a tutor of English for the International Institute of Los Angeles. It was only a diversion; I had no education training, but I thought it might be fun to try to help an immigrant or two practice a new language.

THE PEOPLE I was assigned to work with, in June of 1957, were a pair of Hungarian refugees, Imre and Ideko. They had two children, Cristina and Peter. When I met them they had been in this country three months; they spoke no English at all when they arrived. Armed with a note written in Hungarian introducing me, I went to their home, an old, somewhat ramshackle house on an overgrown lot in Altadena.

When I met Ideko—she was 28, frail and pretty, with long, curly dark hair and the wan vivacity of someone with anemia—she was so delighted to see a visitor that she pulled me in, clapped her hands over the note, and cried, "Happy, happy!" over and over.

That first day, in desperation, we talked in a hastily-imvised sign language most of the time. I racked my brain and brought up a few dribs and drabs of high-school French, of the "Comment-allez-vous?" kind. She clapped her hands again when she heard this and inundated me in a torrent of fluid French.

So I went home and read up on French after presenting her with simplified English grammar for her to start on.

IMRE, HER HUSBAND, I met on the second visit, the next Saturday afternoon. He was 33, blond, stocky, with a cheerful, but sophisticated smile. He told me—in French, which he spoke even better than Ideko—that he understood I was the lady linguist who would help them.

After I stopped laughing—my review of French had only reminded me how much trouble I'd had with irregular verbs the first time around—we began to get acquainted.

Imre was a civil engineer in Budapest before the revolution; he'd gotten a job as a draftsman on arrival here. Because he really was a linguist—he spoke, besides Hungarian and French, Latin, Russian, Italian, and Greek—and had some English-speaking people to talk to in the office, he'd started to learn some halting "kitchen English."

I pieced some of their experiences together over the subsequent months.

THE REVOLUTION squelched Imre had to leave Budapest at once. He had participated to the extent of tearing a picture of Molotov from the wall of his office and throwing it and some Red books on the floor. This made him a conspirator and an enemy of the state, so he had to leave or be shot. He tried to persuade Ideko to come with him—she was a secretary in another office—but her parents, with whom they lived, convinced her that she should not.

Because nearly all mothers must work in a Communist society to earn enough to rear a family, Ideko had never done housework or cared for her children. Her own mother had done that. She had never cooked, washed or ironed a shirt. Her father told her she could not last a week without someone to look after her.

Persuaded that he was right—there was no evidence that he wasn't—she stayed behind, but felt more and more lonely for Imre as the weeks passed, between November and Christmas. Two days before Christmas, an unsigned message came to her at the office where she worked, telling her to bring the children and "take a trip" with the two men who brought it.

WITH THE CHILDREN and two tiny bags of clothing—mostly theirs—Ideko confronted her parents with her decision. Stoically they accepted it. Her father gave her five gold rings and what American currency they had been able to keep—Communist devaluated Hungarian money was worthless anywhere else. She put on the gold watch her father had given her when she graduated from the gymnasium (like our junior college) and started out on the train.

Misjudging the best place to cross the border, her couriers took her to a section the Russians had just reinforced. So many refugees had crossed that they were determined to put a stop to it. Not knowing this, the small group of the two couriers; Ideko, with Cristina, then a bright-eyed blond four years old, and Peter, a chunky 20-month toddler, set out on foot for the border. They had little food and there was none for sale. Several hours' walk away was the border into Austria.

At 10 o'clock on a wintry December night—Christmas Eve—they started out across the dark, snow-covered fields, heavily stubbled beneath the drifts with last year's grain crop. Other portions of the journey would lead them over swampy ground.

But, assured by the guides that freedom lay ahead, Ideko—carrying Peter and with Cristina trudging beside her—started on the long trip. Ahead, in the night, they could see the sweeping beams of the Russian searchlights cutting back and forth across the mined border.

President Equivocates in Integration Fight

By Robert G. Spivack

THE PRESIDENT AND LIT-TLE ROCK—It is now more than five years since Dwight D. Eisenhower has been President. Yet the question continually arises: Does Mr. Eisenhower fully realize the power, prestige and moral persuasiveness that automatically accrues to the man who occupies The White House?

At his latest press conference the answer seemed to be "yes" and "no." As has been the case so often this past year, the issue of school integration dominated the news. This time the President seemed determined to get the jump on his critics who have frequently accused to the man rather than acting to head it off.

The President, dressed in a tan summer suit, looked grim as he walked into the press-conference room. In his right hand he held a sheet of paper and he opened the conference by reading from it.

THIS TIME the President said, without engaging in personalities, that the law enforcement authorities had better uphold the Supreme Court integration decision.

What Do You Think . . .

Mockingbird, Thou Never Wert

By Lee Shippey

In our neighborhood, the blithe spirit that, from Heaven or near it, poureth its full heart in profuse strains of unpremeditated art is not the skylark. It is the garden variety of mockingbird.

But it would give any poet equal reason for exclaiming "Bird thou never wert," for birds have to sleep sometimes or die, whereas this blithe spirit never seems to have to sleep. Off in the silly night it perches on the highest treetop and salutes its mate, and all the listening world, with a love song as rapturous—and almost as repetitious—as a commercial.

One of the trees in our yard rises to a plume, beyond the reach of cats, which is a favored concert stage for mockingbirds. Other night we got home late, but a mocker was flooding the neighborhood with melody. I decided to lie awake and see how long he kept it up. Being wakeful, I thought I might as well appreciate the singing instead of getting annoyed, and it was so lovely that once I changed my mental attitude I found myself charmed, and so soothed that I drifted off to sleep in spite of my decision.

In what seemed only a minute later that same mocker woke me by greeting the dawn as joyously as if there had never been a dawn before. At breakfast time it still was going strong and it was the same at mid-morning, noon and mid-afternoon. There simply doesn't seem to be any hour of day or night when one isn't likely to hear a mocker singing "Joy to the World."

Even in this age of miracles that is something to ponder. When you and I "didn't sleep a wink all night"—which usually means we slept only two or three hours—we aren't likely to get up singing. We are much more likely to come to the breakfast table snarling. So what do mockingbirds have that we haven't got? Oh, yes, they must have better dispositions, a sounder philosophy and far less petty irritability to start with, but what else? When it comes to stamina and ability to shake off petty irritations, or turn them into something sweet, how much manpower does it take to equal one mockingbird?

Just try being happy, agreeable and full of tenderness after a couple of almost-sleepless nights and you may be forced to admit that some of the virtues we like to think of as among the nobler human attributes are strictly for the birds.

OUR SISTER-IN-LAW from Kansas City is visiting us, and tells us that in the Kansas City Star she saw a dispatch announcing the death of the distinguished American artist, Alfred James Dewey. That indicates that AP and UPI carried the story all over the United States.

Membership Available at Beth Israel

Membership in the Jewish Community Center of Temple Beth Israel is now available to families living in the San Gabriel Valley. It was announced by Aaron B. Glaser, membership chairman of the Temple.

With the High Holy Days approaching, Temple officials urge Jewish families to make necessary arrangements.

The Foothill Jewish Community Center is headed by Rabbi Charles W. Steckel, Ph.D. The Temple Center staff includes Sal Blumen-thal, cantor; Nathan Chroman, principal; 12 certified Sunday School teachers, Hebrew teacher, youth director and organist.

The Foothill Jewish Community Center has acquired the four-acre site on Foothill Blvd. and Second Ave., in Arcadia, and is planning to start building in the near future.

There is no building assessment for new members. Active members in good standing, affiliated now with the Center, before erection of the new structure will be honored as "founding members."

For further information, contact Dr. Steckel, ELgin 5-1154, or Aaron B. Glaser, ELgin 5-0341.

HOSPITAL ACCREDITED

Commending the hospital for the many fine evidences of quality care to its patients, the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals has fully accredited the Methodist Hospital of Southern California in Arcadia, according to word received yesterday by Walter R. Hoefflin Jr., administrator.

Fuller Faculty Plans Talks On Weekend

Three Labor Day weekend church conferences will feature Fuller Seminary faculty members as keynote speakers.

Dr. Edward John Carnell, president of Fuller Theological Seminary, speaks at the Los Angeles County Christian Endeavour Conference at Tahquitz Pines in the San Jacinto Mountains. Nearly 200 college-age students from Protestant churches in the county are expected for the three-day conference.

Dr. Lars I. Granberg, dean of Fuller Seminary, speaks at the Reformed Church Conference in Clear Lake, Iowa, while Dr. William Carson Lantz, head of the Fuller Seminary speech department, speaks at the Missionary Church of Van Nuys conference at the Union Rescue Mission Camp Grounds in San Diego County.

In Sunday services Aug. 31, Dr. Gleason Leonard Archer, professor of Biblical languages, speaks at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services of the Christian Reformed Church of Los Angeles; Dr. Everett F. Harrison, professor of New Testament, speaks at the 7:30 p.m. service of the Lake Avenue Congregational Church, and Dr. William S. LaSor, professor of Old Testament, speaks at the Rolling Hills Covenant Church at the 11 a.m. service.

Mrs. A. J. Dewey Visits New York

Mrs. Alfred J. Dewey, 810 Canyon Crest, enplaned last night for New York where she will have an indefinite stay with her son-in-law and daughter, the Morton Womers, in their Bedford Village home.

The Art Hewitts were hosts last Sunday at a cocktail party honoring Mrs. Dewey. Those in attendance were Mrs. Phyllis Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Miller, Mrs. Tony Briglio, Mrs. Donald Matson and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Underwood.

Mrs. George R. Stucka Heads Mt. Alverno Guild

SIERRA MADRE Woman's Club will have a board meeting in the clubhouse Sept. 3 at 10 a.m. Mrs. Charles H. Tye, recently returned home from a holiday, will preside at the meeting. All board members are urged to attend and be prompt.

WCTU PASADENA FEDERATION of WCTU met last week in a Pasadena restaurant for installation ceremonies for federation as well as union of officers in the area. Those attending from the local Harter Union were Mrs. Helen Sandage, Mrs. Dorothy Renchell, Mrs. Edith Buchan, Mrs. Emily Crockett, Mrs. Ethel Myers, Mrs. Marion Harfman, Mrs. Nell Vieira, Miss Martha Ramset, Mrs. Lillian Stilson, Mrs. Eva Freeman, Mrs. Louise Weaver and a guest, Mrs. Marie Clark.

MT. ALVERNO GUILD Mrs. GEORGE R. Stucka has been selected by Mt. Alverno Guild to succeed Mrs. R. J. Hilbe as its president. Formerly of Partridge, Ill., Mrs. Stucka has been a member of Holy Angels Parish, Arcadia, for the past year. She resides at 1125 S. 5th Ave. with her husband who is assistant chief engineer at Tubing Seal Inc., San Gabriel, and her children, Daniel, 16, a senior at Mission High School; July 15, a sophomore at Mission High School; Jeanne, 4th grade at Holy Angels; and Leonard, 5, kindergarten at Camino Grove.

In succeeding Mrs. Hilbe, a charter member of the organization who has moved to Northern California, Mrs. Stucka will continue to have the same officers to assist her who were elected last December.

Plans for a busy fall season are underway, according to Mrs. E. D. Pulone, ways and means chairman. A fall fashion show at the La Fave estate is first on the agenda. Later a rummage sale will be held. Anyone wishing to donate may call Mrs. Stucka at Hillcrest 6-7621, or Mrs. W. Fleming at ELgin 5-9692 and arrangements will be made for its pick-up.

Mrs. Stucka is looking forward to greeting all members at her first general meeting in September. The guild now numbers about 200 members and was organized in 1957 to assist the Sisters of St. Francis of Penance and Christian Charity who maintain their Mother House at 675 W. Highland Ave.

LADY LIONS SIERRA MADRE Lady Lions will meet Sept. 27 in the Forest Room on north Lake St. for installation ceremonies for their new officers, Barbara Dunnagan, president; Marilyn Narcowich vice president; Artyk Tischler, secretary; and Mary Delgado, treasurer.

The election was held at a recent meeting in the Jim Dunnagan home. The evening also included a surprise baby shower for the outgoing president, Mrs. Carl Lotze. Games, prizes and refreshments carried out the evening's theme.

Wedding Reception For Rhoduses

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy C. Toms, 265 Mariposa, were hosts last Saturday evening at a wedding reception for their daughter, Diane, and her husband, Gary Kent Rhodus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Truman Rhodus, 407 Mariposa.

A tiered wedding cake centered the refreshment table and champagne toasts were drunk to the couple married Aug. 16 in Christ Church Episcopal, Las Vegas.

The groom's parents assisted the hosts, and Mary Anne Morse took care of the guest book.

Lamplighters In Attendance At Party

Lamplighters of Sierra Madre Methodist Church were invited to a "Down on a Farm Party" last Saturday night by invitations written on corn husks.

Myron and Kay Smith, 475 Manzanita, hosts, were assisted by Dr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Hole, Dr. and Mrs. Wilder Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Andy Westhafer.

Long tables were arranged on the lamp-lighted patio for the fried chicken and watermelon feast enjoyed by 50 Lamplighters and special guests. Noel Phelan, newly appointed minister of youth, Mrs. Phelan, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carnes of San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Shanks.

A brief installation ceremony was conducted by Rev. Phelan for Ruby and Jim Weber who were elected secretary and treasurer of the club at last month's meeting. The program included games and community singing.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Imhoff, 920 Fallen Leaf Rd., will be hosts at the September meeting of the fellowship group.

Mrs. Douglas Russell Delahooke

Delahooke-Lange Rites In Congregational Church

Jane Adele Lange, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Lange, 529 W. Laurel, exchanged nuptial vows with Douglas Russell Delahooke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Delahooke, 1240 Hastings Ranch Dr., at a candlelight ceremony in Sierra Madre Congregational Church Aug. 23, Rev. George Lindsay.

The aisle was lined with white ribbons and bows with candles at the ends of the pews. Large baskets of white gladiolus, accented with yellow, and candelabras banked the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a white taffeta and Chantilly lace gown fashioned with a Empire short sleeved bodice. A band of embroidered sequins was inserted below the square neckline. The floor length gored skirt with a lace panel in back, flowed into a chapel train. Her pure silk illusion veil was caught by a queen's cap of lace, accented with sequins. She carried a bouquet of white gladiolus and lilies of the valley with a white satin bow and streamers.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Ronald Westerman, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids, Nina Shearer, long-time friend, and Lenora Daly of Mill Valley, Calif., Jean Bickel and Ann Perine, sorority sisters, wore Nile green taffeta princess style frocks with embroidered taffeta inserts and matching headpieces of tulle leaves with short veils.

Mrs. Westerman carried a bouquet of canary yellow gladiolus and lilies of the valley with yellow ribbon trim. The bridesmaids' bouquets were of pale green gladiolus with yellow ribbons.

Thomas Delahooke served his brother as best man and the guests were seated by Donald Westerman and John Monroe of San Lorenzo, Calif., Thomas Littlefield and Mark Pepps, fraternity brothers. The mother of the bride was attired in a willow green ensemble with matching accessories. Her corsage was of cymbidiums.

The groom's mother was gowned in a rose petal pink lace and tulle dress, with matching accessories. Her corsage was of white and pink orchids.

Bruce Remsbery, soloist, was accompanied at the organ by Gustav Rihard.

A reception for 300 guests was held at Huntington Sheraton Hotel. Assisting with the refreshments was Mrs. Thomas Delahooke, Nancy Rogers, Kay Pascoe and Anne Grizzle. The guest book was taken care of by Mrs. John Monroe.

Out-of-town guests came from Berkeley, Los Angeles, Newport Beach, San Francisco and Costa Mesa.

Both young people will return to the University of California at Berkeley, where she is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority and Cal Club, and he is a member of Alpha Delta Phi fraternity and Bachelors of San Francisco, to complete their senior year.

Following a honeymoon through Laguna Beach, Las Vegas, Yosemite and Lake Tahoe, the newly married couple will make their home at Canon Rd., Berkeley, Calif.

Dinner Party Honors Ladies Neighbors met at the Anthony Briglio home, 675 Orange Dr., for a surprise birthday celebration for Mrs. Hewitt and a farewell party for Mrs. Don Matson who is leaving the end of this week to make her home at Hesperia.

In attendance at the dinner were Mrs. Clarence R. Creighton, Mrs. Phyllis Wilson and Mrs. William F. Underwood.

Mrs. John Franklin Weeks
Shirley Ann Gilmore Weds
John Franklin Weeks Aug. 24

White flowers and fern banked the altar at Chapel of Roses Aug. 24 when Shirley Ann Gilmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Gilmore of Arcadia, became the bride of John Franklin Weeks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Weeks, 625 Fairview, Rev. Ernest Becker read the service.

The bride, escorted down the aisle by her father, wore an imported French white brocade gown styled with a fitted bodice and full bouffant skirt. Her finger-tip illusion veil fell from a crown of pearls. She carried a crescent bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, centered with white orchids. The maid of honor, Sharon Gilmore, twin sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids, Phyllis Glafke and Sharon Pierce, wore melon silk organza over taffeta trapeze backed dresses with matching headpieces. Their crescent bouquets were of pale pink carnations.

Ellsworth Fuller was best man and the ushers were Matthew Billard and Nino Valmassoi.

Steven Gilmore, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. The mother of the bride was attired in an avocado silk faille dress with beige accessories and cymbidium corsage.

The groom's mother chose a powder blue lace ensemble with pink accessories and cymbidium corsage.

A reception for 200 guests was held at Chapel of Roses with Judy Babb of Glendale officiating at the guest book.

The bride is a graduate of Arcadia High School and Al Tate School of Cosmetology in Pasadena.

The groom is a graduate of Pasadena High School and Pasadena City College. He will continue his education at Los Angeles State College.

Following a honeymoon at Newport Beach the couple will make their home in Monrovia.

Fashion Show At Swim Club

Pasadena Swim and Sports Club will have its annual fashion show this evening, beginning at 7, on the club lounge around the pools.

The show will feature the showing of the latest fall fashions for children and adults from Gorton's Children Wear of Pasadena, Carol's Adult's Wear of Altadena and LePore's Men's Clothing Of South Pasadena.

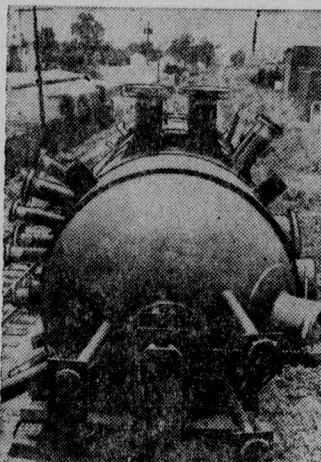

A catered supper party will precede the show.

Methodists Set Senior Youth Church Program

Sierra Madre Methodist Youth Fellowship began the season with a swimming party and barbecue last Sunday at the home of Dr. V. H. Hildyard, 176 El Vista Circle, in Arcadia.

Noel Phelan, youth minister, announced this was the beginning of the senior youth program for the coming year.

Many social and educational activities have been planned for the entertainment and development of the young men and women of Sierra Madre Methodist Church, he said.

Boys Republic Turns Liability Into Asset

Boys Republic, a famous "self help" boy community near Pomona, has once again turned a liability into an asset, as they have done so many times during their over a half century of history.

This time an unsightly abandoned clay pit, once used as a kiln site for firing its own building bricks, has been converted into an underground silo.

136 feet in length, 18 feet wide and 9 feet deep, the facility gouged from the clay pit will hold over 500 tons of ensilage with which to feed the 100 head of holstein dairy animals which help support the 130 young citizens.

Several years ago a damaged 40-year-old swimming pool was converted into a modern cold storage plant in which to hold fresh redwood wreath bases from which their famous Della Robbia Christmas wreaths are fashioned, substantiating the claim that even a hole in the ground is utilized at this self reliant school, whose motto is "Nothing without labor."

SOUTHLANDERS THROG TO NEW SEA ARENA

THE NEW SEA ARENA (foreground) at Marineland of the Pacific is a $500,000 installation seating 3000 persons in a grandstand facing a half-million-gallon tank of salt water and a huge stage especially designed for the porpoise games and sea lion shows featured at the oceanarium. At the top of the picture is the Whale Stadium, the circular tank; and adjacent to the stadium is the Fishbowl, an oval tank holding more than 5000 fish of some 200 different kinds. Marineland also has an excellent restaurant, a motel and gift shops—plus plenty of free parking—on its 70-acre grounds on the Palos Verdes peninsula.

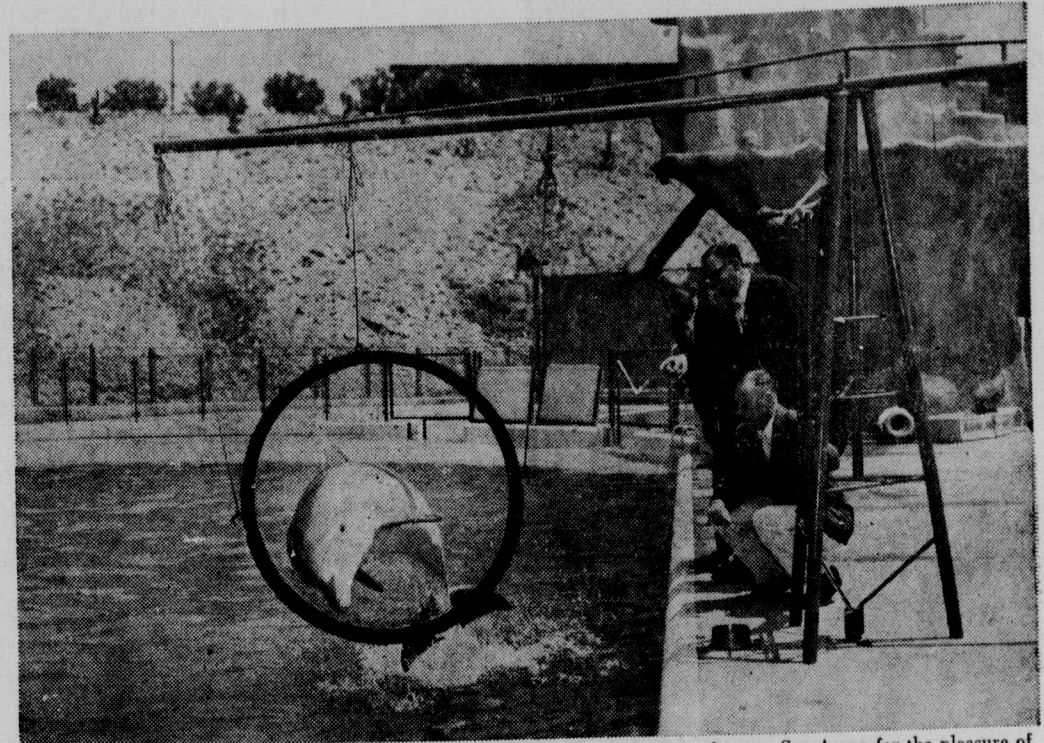

The completion of the new Sea Arena at Marineland of the Pacific has doubled the crowd capacity at the world's largest oceanarium and provided amazing new shows.

The $4,000,000 oceanarium on the ocean shore midway between San Pedro and Redondo Beach now is truly a three-ring circus. The porpoise games and sea lion show are conducted in the Sea Arena; the whale show, with the only two whales in captivity, is staged in the Whale Stadium, and more than 5000 fish are on exhibit in the oval tank, which is the biggest Fishbowl you'll find anywhere.

The Sea Arena cost $500,000 and was completed just this summer. It seats 3000 persons, has a tank which holds 500,000 gallons of sea water, and has a stage about as big as the one in the Hollywood Bowl.

The expansion also made room for more ocean animals; so Marineland put another whale on display—a companion for famous Bubbles, the first trained whale in the world. Bubbles now shares the Whale Stadium with Squirt, who also is a young female pilot whale caught in the Catalina Channel. Both whales now can leap completely out of the water, shake hands, sing, dance, wave good-by, lift a plastic "barbell," and do several other tricks.

William F. Monahan, vice president and general manager of Marineland, said he plans to continue expanding and improving the oceanarium so that new wonders from the sea can be brought constantly before the eyes of the many thousands who visit the three-ring sea circus every day.

SMILEY, the most educated porpoise in the world, zips through the hoop in the new Sea Arena for the pleasure of William F. Monahan, vice president and general manager of Marineland; Norris Paulson, mayor of Los Angeles, and Henry U. Harris, president of Marineland. Smiley and the other porpoises also can play baseball, football and basketball; sing, blow horns and beat drums; put out fires, tow boats and leap 15 feet out of the water.

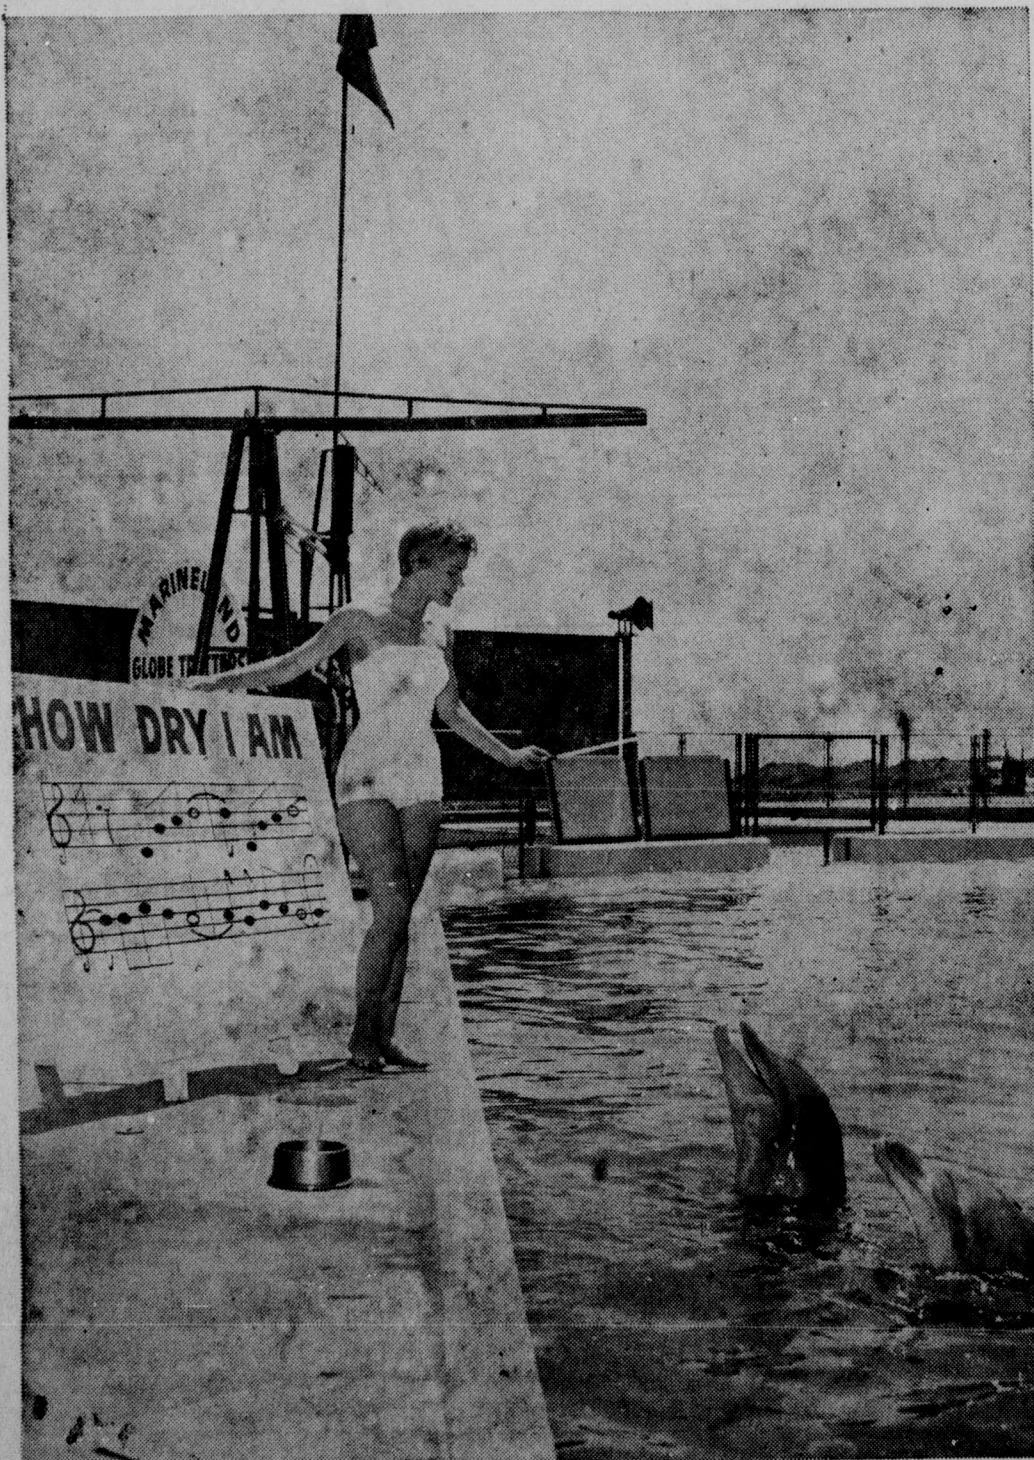

CY THE SEAL slyly snatches some extra tidbits from the food container carried by Capt. Harold Winston during the Seal Circus in the new Sea Arena at Marineland of the Pacific. The sea lions go through their bag of tricks and then high dive from an 18-foot tower.

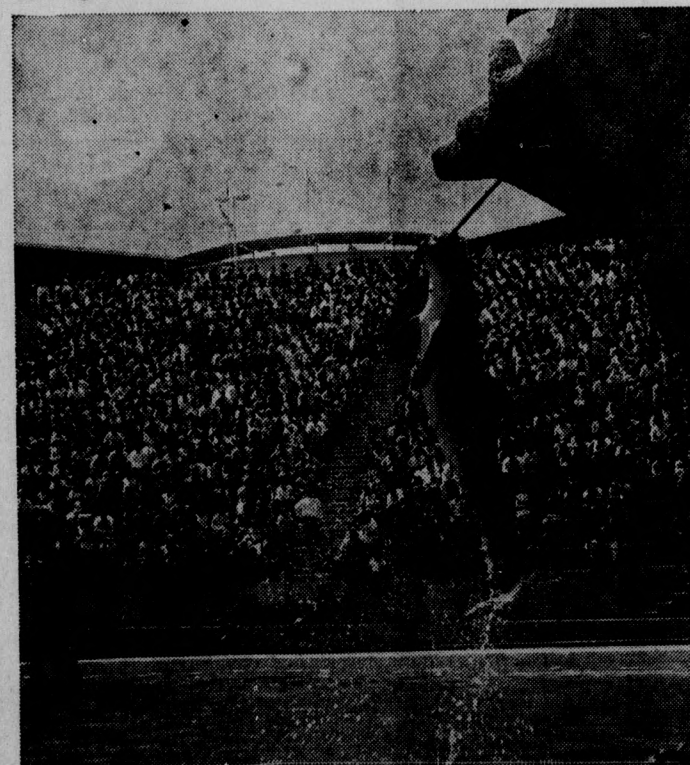

MARINELAND NOW FEATURES TWO WHALES

Completion of the new Sea Arena at Marineland of the Pacific this summer doubled the crowd capacity and also made room for two whales instead of one. Now a second whale, Squirt, has been moved in with famous Bubbles, the first trained whale in the world. And the Sea Arena is the home of the clowning porpoises and the riotously funny sea lions mentored by Capt. Winston. Below, lovely Dorothy Braco of Marineland gives a singing lesson to Smiley, the porpoise, in his new quarters in the Sea Arena.

EASY DOES IT! Squirt, Marineland's second whale, gently is lowered into the water of Whale Stadium to join Bubbles, the first trained whale in the world. The pair now go through their tricks in several shows daily, get along well together.

SPRAY, one of the most athletic porpoises at Marineland of the Pacific, leaps almost 15 feet in the air to grab a ball which raises the flag for the porpoise games in the new Sea Arena. There are five trained porpoises in the act, Spray, Smiley, Zippy, Splash and Speedy. Other performers are scheduled to join the act later on.

BUBBLES (background) and Squirt (foreground), the only two whales in captivity in the world, cavort six times daily in the Whale Stadium atop the main oceanarium building at Marineland. Squirt has learned rapidly and now can do almost as many tricks as Bubbles, who was the first trained whale in history.

HELMETED DIVERS descend several times daily into the Fishbowl at Marineland of the Pacific and feed the 5000 fish by hand. There are more than 200 varieties of fish in the oval-shaped, four-story tank, including sharks, giant sea bass, batrays, sea turtles, sunfish and many others.

CRASHING THROUGH... A plane is halted by a durable nylon webbing barrier in this demonstration at Andrews AF Base, MD. Webbing was designed to halt runway jet aircraft during emergency landings.

Rev. Hesse to Resume Pulpit This Sunday

After a three-Sunday vacation, the Rev. Armin W. Hesse will resume the pulpit at Faith Lutheran Church, 835 Hastings Ranch Drive, on Sunday morning to present his Bible message on "Why Work?" The message will point to the national observance of Labor Day next Monday.

Rev. and Mrs. Hesse and their three children, Julie, Elaine and Gary, spent their vacation house-traveling at Yosemite National Park, Santa Cruz and Big Basin, Monterey and Carmel, San Simeon and at Carpinteria State Beach.

They reported making many new acquaintances and friends en route. While at San Simeon they toured the Hearst Monument, opened to the public for the first time this year.

During the local clergyman's absence, the pulpit was occupied by Rev. Arthur H. Kaub of San Gabriel.

Jewish Center Classes Offered

A complete curriculum from kindergarten to confirmation will be offered boys and girls again this year at the Foothill Jewish Community Center, Temple Beth Israel, 212 N. Lima, Nathan Chroman, Sunday School principal, announced yesterday.

Sunday School at the Temple includes classes in Hebrew history, tradition and folk songs. Pupils also participate in plays and games for the various festivals.

Classes for children 5 to 15 are on Sunday from 10 a.m. until 12 noon.

Rev. Hansen Returns to Pulpit Sunday

Just back from vacation, the Rev. Ray E. Hansen will preach his first sermon as the first called pastor of Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church when he returns to the pulpit this Sunday, Aug. 31.

He will preach on "The Great Victory," based on the last chapter of the Book of Acts, at the 10 a.m. worship in the Upper Room of the Woman's Club, 270 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. This will climax the congregation's study of Acts.

Before leaving on vacation, Pastor Hansen accepted the call of the congregation, which he has led from the

LESSON-SERMON

The practical importance today of the healing works of Christ Jesus will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday. Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Christ Jesus" will include the account in John's Gospel (9:1-7) of Jesus' healing of the blind man.

beginning last fall as a mission developer for the Board of American Missions, United Lutheran Church. He resigned as mission developer for the board to remain in Sierra Madre and became the pastor of Shepherd of the Hills.

Sunday School will be at 9 a.m., featuring a Bible story by the pastor.

Don't let well enough alone—at least attempt to improve it.

Author, Religious Science Speaker

Margery Wilson, author of the present best sellers "Believe in Yourself" and "Your Personality and God," will be the guest speaker at the Santa Anita Church of Religious Science, 778 S. Rosemead Blvd., Pasadena, at both the 9:15 and 11 a.m. services, Sunday, Aug. 31.

Using the "Strength of Ten for You" as her subject, Margery Wilson will speak as one with authority, as she has accomplished many unusual things during her life.

Besides being author of 10 books used in universities and schools, she is a pioneer in the teaching of charm. She is the founder and teacher of the course "The Cultured Mind" and a pioneer in the campaign to raise the "status of teaching." She has been a member of the "Six Famous Women" series, and is an inveterate traveler and hostess.

Rev. Rosalie Fowler, minister of the Redlands Church of Religious Science, will be guest speaker this evening, Aug. 28. Her subject will be "The Answer Is Now."

casting Co., Manila, it was announced by Rev. Robert N. Schaper, pastor of the church. Incorporated as a non-commercial, interdenominational Christian organization, the Far East Broadcasting Co. was founded to provide radio facilities for existing Christian denominations and missionary organizations.

It was granted the first radio franchise issued by the new Republic of the Philippines and today eight radio transmitters beam the Christian message to the Asiatic world 20 hours a day, seven days a week in 36 languages and dialects.

Bowman was one of the founders of the Far East Broadcasting Co. and has served as an executive of the organization since its beginning. He has traveled widely throughout the Philippines and other countries of Asia.

For many years Bowman has been a sacred recording artist, and for 12 years prior to the founding of Far East Broadcasting was soloist on the Haven of Rest radio program. He will present a musical program in the evening service also.

Shepherd of the Hills
YEARS AGO a trip across our nation was a great undertaking. Today we can leave the Eastern Coast and swim in the blue Pacific the same day.

OUR LIVES are similar to a modern trip. We are in this journey through time but a short while, when we consider the thousands of years the world has existed. Life is travel similar to our forefathers' time. We see in each day a multitude of problems and many temptations. We must abstain from Satan's snares even at the expense of hardship in our journey through time.

IT TAKES much power to fly a huge plane. So it takes God-given power to carry us through the temptations that face us in life's journey. It is wise to call constantly upon our greatest source of power—the Lord, through prayer.

I became curious the other day about Labor Day. I could never find any particular reason for the holiday, although I admit I'm glad we celebrate it because it makes such a nice long weekend. It seems, for those who might be ill-informed as I, that it was started as early as 1833, and May 1st was the first date used for the celebration.

My source informed me that it was started by trade unions, Socialist parties and labor organizations in general for a public celebration. It went on to say that we started the holiday in the United States in 1892 and that we differ from Europe in our celebration in that it is participated in by all classes and marked by the closing of all factories and stores, and by meetings, picnics, parades, speeches, athletic events and other holiday activities. Well, see that you do one or more of all those things.

TALKED TO Mrs. John D. Sorenson of Calvert Road the other day. She feels that time has flitted by this year. They have been doing a good deal of trekking to and from the beach visiting with friends.

I also learned that the Harold Smiths of Calvert Road have sold their home and have at long last taken up residence in the desert near Joshua where they have plans to start a trailer camp. Good luck, Smiths!

DR. AND MRS. George Woodruff of Barhite are home again after a two-week trip to Oregon, where they visited their son and daughter-in-law and new baby.

MR. AND MRS. Charles Klingerman have moved into their newly completed home at 1210 Wynn Road. The house, modern in style, was fully designed and executed by Mr. Klingerman, who is an architect with the firm of Walker, Kallones and Klingerman, in Los Angeles. They do mostly commercial architecture. The Klingermans have two children. Mark is 12 and their daughter, Janice, is 11. They both will attend Assumption School. Mrs. Klingerman is president of the Tri Delta Pasadena Alumnae Chapter, and two days after moving into their home had a group of 12 in for bridge.

THE H. C. TUMILTYs of Sierra Madre Villa took a few days off last week to enjoy the wonders of Las Vegas. They have been busy all summer remodeling and putting in a new decorator's department in their store (Rounds Carpets), so they felt as if they were really playing hooky to take off these few days.

THE EDWIN PYLES of Old House Road continue to bring home the ribbons with their string of show horses. They recently attended the show at Santa Barbara. Their daughter Julie (Mrs. Ron Perry) rode their 3-gaited mare, "Truly Fair," and came out undefeated with the championship in the Ladies and Amateur classes. They also entered in the Tennessee Walking meet and did very well in that. In all they came home with at least 12 ribbons to add to their collection.

During the show the Pyles gave their sixth annual Hunt Breakfast in the gardens of the El Mirasol Hotel. Their guests included many of their Santa Barbara friends, as well as many of the exhibitors in the show. In addition, they had a group of around 12 people from this area who came up for the breakfast and the show. In all, there were 150 guests.

MRS. KARL DIETZEL of Meyer Loa Lane has been broken into the life of young teenagers with a bang. For the last 10 days she has had two 16-year-old girls visiting her from the suburbs of Chicago. They are a daughter of a friend and a cousin, TOURISTS OF YEAR . . . Vacationing in Bremerton, Wash., are Mr. and Mrs. William Hillard and Son, Jeff.

The William H. Hillards, 1120 Tropical, and one of their sons, Jeff, have returned from a holiday through the Pacific Northwest.

They had planned a pleasant camping trip, visiting friends along the way, and were unprepared for the surprise which greeted them in Bremerton, Wash., as they drove off the ferry from Seattle.

Mr. Hillard, an ex-Navy lieutenant, was in hopes his old ship, the USS Midway, was in the northern port and wanted his son to see it and the shipyard.

As the car left the ferry, a patrolman pulled them over and asked him if he was reporting for duty aboard the USS Hornet which was arriving later in the day.

After Mr. Hillard had identified himself and his purpose for being in the area, he was told that his family had been selected by the Chamber of Commerce to be Bremerton's tourists of the year.

From then on, they were wined, dined and entertained royally. They were members of the official welcoming party which went aboard the Hornet on its arrival, and met the officers and crew.

They were honored at a coffee hour in the mayor's office and had a very complete tour of the shipyard as well as everything else of interest in the area. Two cleaning establishments in Bremerton offered them free cleaning and laundry service.

The above picture was taken during their round of activities and appeared on the front page of The Bremerton Sun.

The other two Hillard boys, Bill and John, missed all the excitement since they had chosen to attend the YMCA camp at Big Bear Lake while their parents and brother were on the camping trip.

Rehearsal
Dinner Held
At Delahookes

Mr. and Mrs. H. Russell Delahooke, 1240 Hastings Ranch Dr., were hosts last Thursday night at a buffet dinner party following the wedding rehearsal of their son, Douglas, and Jane Lange, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Lange.

Those in attendance included Rev. and Mrs. George Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. Lange, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Westerman, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Delahooke, Mr. and Mrs. John Monroe of San Lorenzo, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Gus Riber, Thomas Littlefield, Dave Owen, Bruce Remsburg and Mark Pepys.

Also, Nonie Daly of Mill Valley, Calif., Nina Shearer, Ann Perine and Jean Bickel.

Don Benito
Plans Annual
Barbecue

J. Harvey Brown Jr., general chairman, has announced plans for the third annual Don Benito PTA Barbecue, scheduled for Wednesday evening, Sept. 24, on the school grounds, are under way.

This first big social event of the year will be an informal get-together of parents and teachers. A Spanish Fiesta theme has been chosen for this year's event.

Last year's caterers will again serve the barbecued beef dinner. A special program is being planned. Tickets will be $1.75.

Those assisting Mr. Brown are Bill Shiner and Vic Harris, publicity and tickets; Mrs. James F. Edwards, decorations; Bill Kinard, lights and electrical wiring, and Jim Simone, tables.

More details will be given at a later date.

21 Paintings
On Display
At Padua

An art exhibit of 21 paintings by students of two prominent Southern California painters, Walter Mix and James Heuter, both instructors at Mount San Antonio College, are now on display at Padua Hills Theatre, Claremont.

All but one of the paintings are in oils. The exception is entitled "the Stump" and was done in watercolor by C. Wesley Benson, Ruth Jackson, Gayle Stokes, and Gloria Thomas each have two or more paintings in the exhibit.

Meanwhile, preparations are underway for the Fifth Annual Art Fiesta at Padua, which will feature a number of famous Southern California artists, who will perform their artistry beginning Sept. 9.

The Art Fiesta will run through Sept. 14. Free to the public, artists will do their work before spectators from 2 until 10 p.m. It was announced by Milford Zornes, Padua Art Director.

Among the artists who will participate are Harry McIntosh, ceramics; Betty Davenport Ford, sculptor; Walter Mix, oils; Hildred Reentz, ceramics and sculpture; Harry Osaki of Pasadena, silver-smith; James Heuter, oils; Robert Wood, silk screen; Tony Ivens, ceramics and painting; Douglas McClellan, head of the art department at Chaffey Junior College; and Zornes, watercolors.

UP ON . . .

Hastings Hill

It seems as though we can't stop having accidents in the Ranch. Two cars came together last Thursday at the intersection of Leonard and Alegria. The blame for so many of these accidents is equally divided between the two drivers and not necessarily because any recklessness or negligence has been shown on the part of either.

Our streets seem to have the appearance of being "main thoroughfares" while we are driving on them. We have the feeling at an intersection the other car should be making the stop, not us. I could be wrong, but I have the feeling that all residents would be happier with more stop signs. We'll have to see what can be done in that department.

Fortunately in last week's accident, no one was seriously injured, but aside from the bumps and bruises, the shock of going through such an ordeal is enough to knock you out for awhile.

BOB JACOBSON has now passed the test of "sitter supreme." Last weekend he successfully sat with a duck—quite a handsome one at that. Not ever having been on intimate terms with a duck, I'm not too familiar with the "kinds." However, this one was a pretty black one and waddled about with a fancy pink leather collar and leash. It seems IBM is running some sort of a sales contest and the losing office "wins the duck" for the week. Of course, those at company headquarters didn't figure out who "won" the bird on weekends so Bob was left "holding the duck" until the problem can be solved.

THE JOE CUMMINS family have returned from a two-week holiday. Part of their time was spent with the Harold Sweets camping on the Kern River. They then donned their "city clothes" and had a fling in San Francisco.

MARILOU and Buck Burgwald were seen last week all "gussied out" on their way down the hill to celebrate their 14th wedding anniversary by a "night on the town."

MEMBERS of Hastings Ranch Workshop of Hastings Ranch Guild to Cystic Fibrosis Foundation have changed the group's name because of too many "Hastings

Registration
Deadline
Sept. 11

Residents are reminded Sept. 11 is the deadline to register for the Nov. 4 general election.

Those persons required to register or re-register are young people who have become of age, people who have changed their address or name, those wishing to change their party affiliation or who failed to vote in either the 1956 primary or general election.

Qualifications are one year's residency in the state; 90 days residency in the county and 54 days in the precinct; an ability to read English and sign their name; and have not been disqualified from voting by reason of a felony conviction.

Naturalized citizens must have been a citizen for at least 90 days prior to the election.

Those deputy registrars in the Ranch are Mrs. J. S. Cross, 1125 Leonard; Mrs. A. M. Stewart, 1170 Valley View; Mrs. M. C. Granieri, 3630 Fairmeade; Mrs. C. B. Penoyer, 3560 Fairmeade, and Mrs. V. M. Allen, 1375 Hastings Ranch.

SHANNON MURPHY of Monterey Park spent several days with her cousin, Melissa Malig.

THE BILL Pursley family has returned from a two-week stay at Newport Beach.

BETTY AND Duke Douglyn arrived home last Sunday following a two-week stay in Detroit, where they visited his mother and her sister.

THERE'S A QUEEN IN THE BUNCH. One of the colorful events each year in connection with Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona is the selection of a queen to reign over its royal court of agriculture. Eleven candidates are chosen from the 500 coeds at Mt. San Antonio College on the basis of beauty, poise and charm, and it is from these that the queen is selected by a panel of judges just prior to the fair opening. The remaining ten become her princesses. Officials have announced the names of the eleven candidates. They are: (left to right) Marilyn Benzango, Monrovia; Dixie O'Bryan, West Covina; Carol Gentry, Whittier; Pat Parker, La Puente; Marlene Foquette, Pomona; Barbara Hubbard, Pomona; Joan Suggs, West Covina; Marilyn Burrows, Covina; Carol Skapik, Pomona; Pat Eckstrom, Pomona; and Karen Kirste, Alhambra.

Your Health...

Keep Food Hot or Cold, Never Keep It Warm

By Roy O. Gilbert, M.D., L.A. County Health Officer

When planning a picnic, many individuals go to considerable trouble to prepare food that will be appetizing and nutritious. Unfortunately, the simple rules that prevent food-borne poisonings and infections are not always followed and the picnicer may take several days to recover from the stomach-ache incurred by eating the food served at this informal meal.

Keep it hot, keep it cold—but never keep it warm. This advice about keeping hot foods very hot and cold foods chilled but never at warm, in-between temperatures has been repeated so often that it gives rise to the feeling that the expression should be decently retired. Illness caused by contaminated food occurs with such frequency, however, that the saying is very timely, especially during the warm summer months.

MANY BUSY housewives like to prepare picnic foods a day in advance and seem to entertain the belief that just because such foods are cooked, it is safe to leave them overnight on the kitchen table or some other warm place since they usually look and smell all right the next day.

However, the particular food contamination that causes the usual case of food poisoning does not in any way resemble the ordinary spoilage of food and there is generally nothing to indicate that it is no longer safe to eat. There is no bad odor emanating from such contaminated food, and it usually looks and tastes like any other food.

Foods that provide a perfect breeding ground for illness-producing bacteria include such things as cooked meats—particularly tenderized hams, fowls, fish, custards, cream-filled pastries and cakes, cooked salad dressings, stuffed eggs and egg salads, and the ever-popular potato salad—and one of the best ways to get into trouble is to leave the potato salad on the table because the refrigerator is full. All such foods must be properly chilled until brought out for the picnic meal.

visable only in the case of certain foodstuffs. Such items as potato salad or sandwiches can be made just as well on the spot and fruit is always easy to fix and good to eat.

It is more difficult to cook foods like chicken and ham properly when using picnic ground equipment. Many individuals solve the problem by cooking such things at home, then transporting them to the picnic in a portable refrigerator box in which everything is kept satisfactorily cold until people are ready to eat.

If sickness occurs from two to three hours after eating, blame can be laid on the toxins produced by the food-poisoning bacteria belonging to the Staphylococcus family, particularly Staphylococcus aureus. The germs multiply with great rapidity in such items as salads and salad dressings, chicken pies, cream-filled desserts, and similar foods. Generally speaking, the greater the quantity eaten, the bigger the stomach-ache.

SHOULD ILLNESS occur anywhere from 7 to 72 hours after eating, chances are that it is caused by a Salmonella infection from contaminated meat that was either insufficiently cooked or improperly refrigerated. This type of food poisoning is somewhat more tenacious in character and the individual may take as long as 10 days to recover. The symptoms, in both types of poisoning, include vomiting, diarrhea, abdominal cramps and prostration.

Zinc poisoning may result from the simple and apparently harmless procedure of mixing acid foods or drinks, particularly fruit punches, in galvanized containers. The illness, although not serious, is distressing.

However, a little planning and care in the preparation, handling and serving of food will take many of the belly-aches out of picnics.

Garden Notes...

For Year 'Round Color, Try Potted Plants

If m'lady likes color wherever she goes, why not arrange it for her? There's no trick to potting up a few plants and moving them to the fore when they've come into bloom. Members of the California Association of Nurserymen keep their nurseries colorful the year round this way. Even annuals such as stock and snapdragons can be grown in gallon cans and sunk in the ground when a previous planting has faded.

To be sure, such a program depends on proper timing to keep it going. If the call is for daffodils on your front step in late winter and spring, you'll want to make successive plantings of early and late varieties this fall.

CYCLAMEN TUBERS will have to be potted up right away to keep color going where tuberous begonias fade out. And replacement plants for that bed of winter stock will have to be started in gallon cans later this fall. These include all sorts of possibilities: more stock, callendulas, cinerarias.

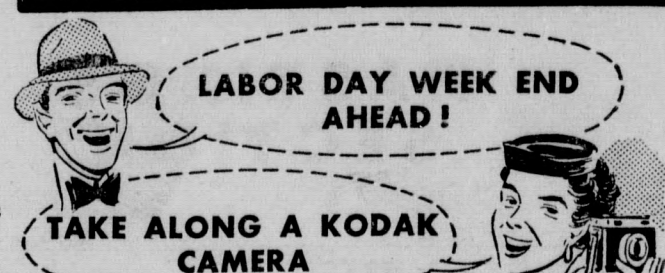

It's fun to experiment with year-round color this way, but time or growing space may be so limited as to make such a program impossible. In such cases, you need only visit your nursery to find container plants already in bloom and awaiting their proper spot on your terrace or deck, or in your garden. Right now you can find portable color in all shapes and sizes at nurseries. Marguerites, blooming now as ever, make an ideal tubed or potted plant when cut back and kept bushy.

TUBEROUS begonias are as happy in pots as in the ground and can be moved wherever and whenever they are needed. Fuchsias will never be more appealing than they are now and will do wonders to spark up the looks of your deck.

Potted chrysanthemums, especially the reds, yellows and bronzes, can carry the load of autumn color in or out of the house.

When you once start with portable gardening, new ideas for container plantings come fast. Which is lucky, because once you've had color wherever you need it, getting along without it.

Group to Fight Tax Scheme Is Organized

An All-Southern California campaign against Proposition 17 on the Nov. 4 ballot, which would change the State sales tax and increase the State income tax to 46 per cent, was opened yesterday with the formation of the Committee to Defeat Proposition No. 17, under the chairmanship of Dr. Arnold O. Beckman.

Hundreds of men and women from every walk of life, from labor and management and from both major political parties, have already offered their aid in the drive against "the tax tampering scheme," Dr. Beckman said.

He invited those interested in the campaign to contact headquarters of the Committee to Defeat Proposition No. 7 at 2796 W. 11th St., (Dunkirk 1-1126) Los Angeles 5, and urged groups and individuals to send contributions to Lauder Hodges, treasurer, Committee to Defeat Proposition No. 17, Citizens National Trust & Savings Bank, 457 S. Top Fishing Spots? Here's Biased Report

By Al Miyadi

Since I don't even have the "pull" to get past the parking lot, I feel immediately qualified to give an honest biased opinion concerning our Southland deepsea landings.

The Miyadi Rankings (not to be repeated, even with permission):

SAN DIEGO—Easily ranks as best overall. Excellent service, beautifully organized. Long on repeat business. Finest fishing grounds on coast.

JOE MARTIN'S (San Pedro)—Excellent public relations, plenty of boats. Offers good, solid service, choice of fishing grounds. Not as accessible as most, however. Runs a fisherman's schedule.

NORM'S LANDING (San Pedro)—A real comer. Vastly improved over last year. Management always trying. Just a step from parking lot to boats.

SANTA MONICA—Fine service, but parking is a problem. Weekend fee is stiff, long walk to landing. Currently best fishing on the coast. Almost always fishing within minutes of pier. Good central location. Boats average. "Regulars" tend to be favored (spots in stern) over casual fishermen.

PARADISE COVE—Potentially best on coast, but location is drawback. Excellent facilities, skippers and boats. Fishing grounds minutes from pier. Service is good. Occasional bait problem.

PACIFIC (Long Beach)—Top boats and skippers. Lots of sharpshooters go for this landing. Excellent location due to freeway access. Offers diversified fishing grounds, skippers always willing to travel.

BALBOA PAVILION—Fine boats, good service. Advantage of Dana Point and south locations, Horseshoe Kelp and north locations. Fishing pressure here fairly light.

MALIBU—Good service, average boats. Currently offering red-hot barracuda fishing, mainly off Topanga Canyon. Good parking facilities. Like most Santa Monica Bay landings, boats leave too late. Fishing spots, however, very close in. Fishing pressure fair.

OCEANSIDE—Extremely well organized, boats leave precisely on time. Fishing grounds fairly close in. Parking facilities not close enough. Too, boats tend to be crowded, elbow room limited.

Biased Report

ed. Fine schedule, Sometimes bait problem.

SAN CLEMENTE—Good, improving. Parking facilities none too good. City is traffic trap. Occasional bait problem. Fishing area diversified, close in.

ENSENADA—Once terrible, now good. Tremendous fishing area. Bait is occasional problem. Parking is excellent. But passing through TJ offers hazard.

SEAL BEACH—Good service, limited fishing grounds. All-day boat is fast, clean, but half-day boat is real clunker. Best sand bass fishing on coast, taken at Huntington Flats. Half-day boat leaves too late to be really effective for barracuda.

BELMONT SHORES—Good service, limited facilities. Usually works Horseshoe Kelp. Fishing pressure here very light. Bad location.

REDONDO—One of most popular landings in Southland despite average service. Close in, excellent fishing at Rocky Point this year, crowds very heavy. Bait rarely a problem. Excellent facilities. Slow boats but very comfortable.

PIERPOINT (Long Beach)—Extremely well organized, offers excellent fishing facilities. Parking is excellent, so is schedule. Top skippers and boats. Biggest operation on coast. Very convenient location. Fine public relations. Service, however, sometimes excellent, sometimes very bad. Volume business here. Tend to crowd boats. Bait is no problem.

CURRENT DEEPSEA fishing, particularly for barracuda, best in decade. . . . hot-test hotspot is Topanga Canyon. . . . Sunday, Santa Monica boats with 185 passengers looped 1,725 barracuda, 25 calico bass, 50 bonito and 3 white sea bass. . . . Yellows beginning to show at Paradise Cove. . . . San Diego's white sea bass run cooling but barracuda and yellows still holding, also some bluefin tuna.

Fishing pal reports good scooter action off Redondo Breakwater early afternoon. . . . use Candy Bar jigs . . . occasional white sea bass. . . . lots of work.

Surf action is slow, should pick up next month. . . . essentially winter sport.

Freshwater action fair, best at Big Bear. . . . Lake Isabella still good for bluegills and crappie, trout action picking up. . . . Lake Henshaw also good for pan fish. . . . Colorado River fishing good but weather is murder. . . . Same for Salton Sea.

Make These

Choices

and you'll be

HOT WATER HAPPY
shower after shower after shower!

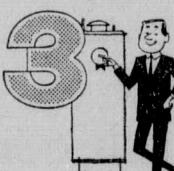

Choose GAS!

Gas heats water three times faster . . . easily keeps ahead of the demands of automatic washing machines, dish washers and growing families. Gas costs less, too.

Choose Right Size!

Your plumber's approved sizing chart shows the proper size automatic Gas water heater for your family. Don't buy an inadequate heater. It overworks—won't last as long nor serve you as well as the right size heater.

Choose Quality!

One good way to select a quality Gas water heater that won't rust is to make sure it carries the Verified Long Life Seal shown here—or insist on a 10-year warranty when you order.

It's easy to buy a new automatic Gas water heater. You can give your plumber all the details he needs over the telephone. You may even arrange convenient terms, credit and financing with him over the telephone.

Hot Chicken Salad Sounds Awful—But Just Wait!

By Toni Maurin
ST 7-9634

I persuaded Mrs. Charles K. (Catherine) Morgan of 612 Montecito to stop her packing long enough to give me two of her most popular recipes. These two have been widely served in town and have been often requested.

In as much as Catherine is moving I felt we ought to get them down for posterity. Although this recipe seems to require a lot of preparation, it is so appealing that you can't pass it by.

TAMALE PIE

(Serves 8)

- 1 lb. lean pork cut in fine strips
- 1 bell pepper chopped
- 1 small can whole kernel corn
- 1 can tomato sauce
- 1 cube butter
- 2 eggs well beaten
- 1/2 tsp. chili powder
- 2 medium onions, chopped
- 1 clove garlic grated
- 1 can chopped ripe olives
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 heaping tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. cayenne

AND:
2 cups yellow corn meal cooked in 4 cups boiling salted water for one hour in double boiler.

Saute pork strips in a little butter until slightly golden. Add the chopped bell pepper a few minutes before the pork is done to tenderize pepper.

To the cooked corn meal add tomato sauce, corn, olives, onions and garlic. Mix slightly and then add melted butter, olive oil, well beaten eggs, milk and spices that have been dissolved in a little hot water. Then add sauted pork and bell pepper.

Stir together until blended and turn into a well greased casserole. Bake uncovered for about one hour at 350° F. or until casserole becomes set. This pie is served with a spaghetti sauce. Mrs. Morgan uses Lowry's packaged spaghetti sauce powder and follows the directions on the package. She adds chopped olives to the sauce and serves it in a gravy boat.

HER SECOND recipe is one that will undoubtedly raise a good many ughs! as you read it. However, it should not be condemned before a trial. She met the same resistance when preparing it for a church social. After the luncheon had been served there were so many people clamoring for the recipe they sold copies of it to raise money for the church.

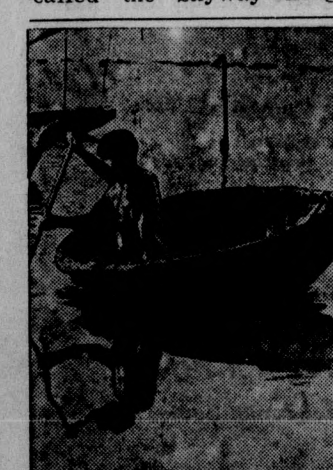

HOT CHICKEN SALAD

- 1 cup diced cooked chicken
 - 2 tsp. diced onions
 - 1/4 tsp. salt
 - 1/2 cup almonds sliced
 - 3 hard cooked eggs sliced thin
 - 1 cup cream of chicken soup (undiluted)
 - 1 cup cooked rice
 - 3/4 cup mayonnaise
 - 1 tsp. lemon juice
 - 1 cup diced celery
- Blend all of the ingredients together lightly and place in a well greased casserole. Top with crumbled rice crispies. Bake at 375° F. in a preheated oven for just 30 minutes. Over cooking will make salad soggy. Celery should still be crunchy when served.

AS I SAID, the Morgans are moving from our fair city this coming week. Mr. Morgan has long been associated with an oil tool company as an engineer.

When his company decided to move to Texas he changed professions completely. In his looking around he came upon a motel in Paradise that was just craving a new owner. With his father, Lewis Morgan, and Catherine to help, he decided they were the family for the job.

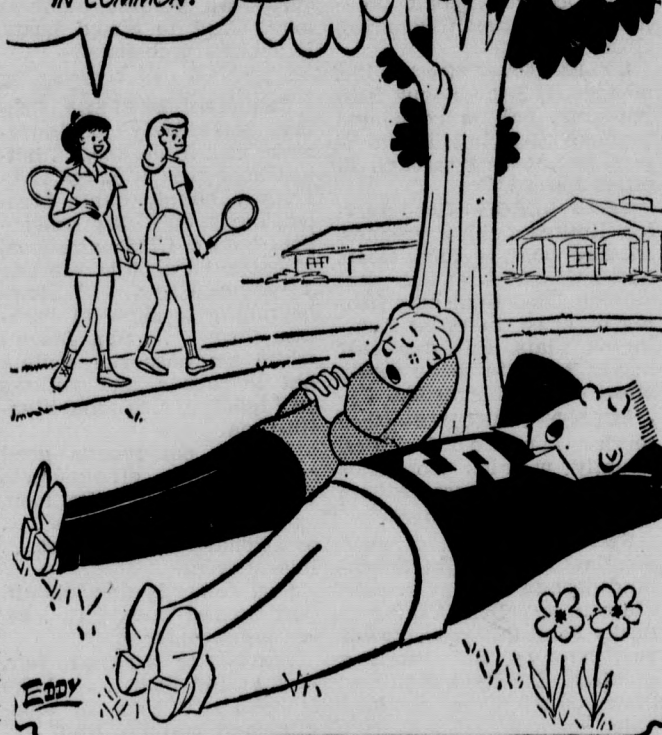

From the description that I was able to get from Catherine, Paradise was aptly named. Their property is called the Skyway Lodge Motel and is located 9 miles east of U.S. 99-E on the Chico Paradise Skyway. It overlooks the Feather River Canyon as well as the Butte Creek Canyon. It is an ideal place for hunting and fishing as well as hiking. Mt. Lassen is no more than a short trek from them and can be made in an afternoon. Their units are furnished and a kitchenette is optional. They have television in every unit, air conditioning and a heated swimming pool.

JUST BOWLING ALONG . . . Going around in circles in his bowl-shaped boat is this young Viet Nam fisherman. The craft is made of woven bamboo.

200 to Vie For Rodeo Prize Money

All details for the big 14th Annual Sheriff's Rodeo to be held in the Los Angeles Coliseum on Sunday afternoon have been completed, according to John R. Moss, general manager and producer of the event.

This mammoth western show will have more spectacular acts than ever before presented at a one-day rodeo anywhere in the country. Over 200 champion cowboys will compete for the largest purse ever offered, more than $30,000 in prize money, and entry fees will be competed for by the top cowhands who have entered the contests.

Spectacular bull riding, bronco busting, steer wrestling and calf roping, will add thrills to the program. Roman, relay and trailer races will provide spills and thrills. Top trick riders and ropers, mounted quadrille and other exciting events will make up the program.

Education is one thing everyone gets on the installment plan.

FOR ATHLETE'S FOOT

USE T-4-L BECAUSE—It sloughs off infected skin. Exposes more germs to its killing action. IN 1 HOUR, if not pleased with T-4-L, instant drying T-4-L liquid, your 48¢ back at any drug store. Use T-4-L FOOT POWDER too—gives a film of antiseptic protection. Now at Hartman's Pharmacy.

for this annual affair. Actress Barbara Stanwyck will officiate as Queen of the Rodeo and Will Hutchins will be Grand Marshal. More than 1,000 beautiful horses will participate in the colorful Grand Entry Parade, always a feature of the show.

Sponsored by the Sheriff's Rodeo Association of Los Angeles County, this yearly show draws more than 90,000 people annually. Tickets are available at any sheriff's station, the Coliseum, the Southern California Music Co. ticket office, 737 S. Hill St., and all Mutual agencies.

Box offices at the Coliseum will open at 10 a.m. on Sunday for the sale of tickets for the Rodeo which begins at 2:30 p.m.
